The relationship between selected ministry factors and effective local church youth evangelism: A Delphi study

Author: Schadt, Dustin James

ProQuest document link

Abstract:

The purpose of this research was to determine the relationship between selected ministry factors and effective youth evangelism in the local church. Youth ministers of churches in the top 100 churches in youth baptisms in the Southern Baptist Convention were contacted. They were asked to assess the importance of selected ministry factors in their churches. These factors included financial support, staff support, volunteer support, and training for youth ministers. The results of the survey were analyzed using a Delphi study. The analysis revealed that financial support, staff support, and volunteer support were the most important factors in youth evangelism. The results of this study can be used to improve youth evangelism in local churches.
